

Bulletin and Newsletter Briefs

June 2008

prepared by CatholicCaregivers.com, a program of the Friends of St. John the Caregiver (www.FSJC.org)

Caregiving is pro-life!

“There are many individuals and causes that can benefit from our assistance. I’d like to focus here on one group: those caring for a disabled or ill relative. Their role involves physical, psychological, emotional and financial demands, yet their contribution often goes unrecognized in our society and formal supports don’t adequately meet their needs.”

--Lisa Petsche, The Catholic Register, Canada

Caregiving is pro-life!

“There are many individuals and causes that can benefit from our assistance. I’d like to focus here on one group: those caring for a disabled or ill relative. Their role involves physical, psychological, emotional and financial demands, yet their contribution often goes unrecognized in our society and formal supports don’t adequately meet their needs.”

--Lisa Petsche, The Catholic Register, Canada

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Our society desperately needs a new vision in which the gift of human life is always cherished and respected, those who suffer are treated and cared for, and each person is enabled to play their unique part in our common life together.”

--Irish Catholic Bishops,
“Day for Life Pastoral 2006”

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Our society desperately needs a new vision in which the gift of human life is always cherished and respected, those who suffer are treated and cared for, and each person is enabled to play their unique part in our common life together.”

--Irish Catholic Bishops,
“Day for Life Pastoral 2006”