

Bulletin and Newsletter Briefs

June 2009

prepared by CatholicCaregivers.com, a program of the Friends of St. John the Caregiver (www.FSJC.org)

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Caring for a chronically ill relative involves physical, psychological, emotional and financial demands. Typically, caregivers experience a variety of distressing emotions along the way.”

--Lisa Petsche

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Caring for a chronically ill relative involves physical, psychological, emotional and financial demands. Typically, caregivers experience a variety of distressing emotions along the way.”

--Lisa Petsche

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Caregivers aren’t interested in tooting their own horns (even if they had the time and energy to do so).”

--Monica Dodds, A Catholic Guide to Caring for Your Aging Parent, (Loyola Press)

Caregiving is pro-life!

“Caregivers aren’t interested in tooting their own horns (even if they had the time and energy to do so).”

--Monica Dodds, A Catholic Guide to Caring for Your Aging Parent, (Loyola Press)

www.CatholicCaregivers.com

www.YourAgingParent.com

www.FSJC.org